

Adventure Aaron Carotta is touring back along the Mississippi and Missouri River with his canoe and paddle. Aaron recently paddled over 5,000 miles from Montana to the Atlantic Ocean for charity and broke the Guinness Book of World Records, Longest Solo Journey by Canoe or Kayak. Aaron had no experience and limited funds, but was able to meet and use the support of others along his journey to get all the way to the end. Aaron is followed by almost 100,000 followers on social media thru Facebook and Twitter. Aaron will also be offering pre-sales to those wanting the DVD and handing out various promotional items. He will be speaking to various schools and youth organizations while doing numerous news and media interviews. Talking points will be focused on handling the challenges that life gives you without any prior experience. Communicating with other peers by listening more as it relates to paddling unsupported, will also be a focal point. The story will be an uplifting, inspirational, open discussion about achieving anything you want in life, regardless of your current experience or situation. The series will air on national TV this summer. Aaron will also be coordinating various 3-7 night paddle retreats for those interested in corporate learning experiences or solo survival skills. Aaron is also a cancer survivor who is eager to visit with local hospitals, paddle and all. More information on Aaron and his journey can be found below;
